Georgia is a family law specialist, called to the Bar in October 2017. Educated at the BPCT Manchester Metropolitan University Georgia took pupillage at a Birmingham set before returning to Manchester where she had previously managed the Manchester Unit of the 'Personal Support Unit' (now 'Support Through Court'). Before deciding to study for the Bar, Georgia worked for the Home Office and the Parliamentary and Health Service Ombudsman.

Georgia prides herself on her ability to be very personable and quickly build rapport with her clients. She is a fierce advocate and is sure to leave no stone unturned, particular in cross-examination. She is quick to utilise legal arguments on her feet and where necessary.
